This book is hoped to be of assistance to those who wish to discover the Shari'ah contracts and the methods of structuring the current Islamic financial products and instruments through adopting either an existing Islamic contract or by combining two or more thereof. As for students and lecturers, this book is sought to be a reference for Islamic banking and finance related courses. It can also be a reference to the general members of the public who are interested to learn about the basic principles in the Islamic contracts and to obtain a general idea about the Islamic banking and financial products. All readers may realized, that the first two chapters have briefly discussed the introduction to Fiqh and Shari'ah and the rule-making process of the areas in Islamic law. The main purpose of the book is to discuss the contracts used in Islamic banking and finance. Nevertheless the basic and important discussion on Fiqh, Shari'ah and the procedure of law-making process is believed to be sufficiently covered in these chapters.
